RCA RT2760 home theater. I have Insignia blu ray player connected. The surround sound works for the ads on the disc, but when the actual movie starts, there's no sound. So when the movie starts the sound switches to the better sound, which you appear to have not connected it up or have not get the right sound settings selected. So you hear nothing. The Blue Ray player might have to have a either an RCA cable connection, or more likely an optical lead to hear the Dolby Sound types.
